Storrett's Corner, The seeds should be kept dry till about the first of February. They should then be mixed with three parts of fine sand that will sift out, and be placed in LARGE STOCK OF GOODS, PURshallow boxes, so that the sand and seed are not more than three or four inches deep. Keep the sand moderately moist by applying water occasionally, and stir the sand and seed every day or two Have small holes in the bottom of the boxes to carry off the surplus water. They should be exposed to freezing weather-should stand out of doorsbut be protected in some way from pigs, chickens, &c. When the seeds are be- NO ginning to sprout nicely, the sand should be sifted out, and the seed planted in rich, deeply-worked soil, and the young plants kept free from weeds and well worked-and in this climate they are fit for use at the end of one season's THE OPENING OF SPRING

Wine Making. Pick the grapes off the stem when ful-ly ripe, rejecting bad ones. Pass them through one of the wine mills to tear open the skins, but not to bruise the bent tube tight in the bung, and let the lower (outside) end rest under the surface of water in a bucket, so that while I all the gas shall escape, the air will not get to the wine. When it has done fermenting, rack it off into clean barrels. bung it up, and set in a cool place; bottle it in a few months. The great secret of making good wine is to select only the best grapes, and not press out the sour portion of the pulp. Nothing is here said about the numerous mixtures of water, sugar and grape juice, which are frequently concocted and sold under the name of wine, but only of the pure juice of the grape properly ferment-
